Edward Mitchell posed for the "movies" yesterday morning when a photographer from the Vitaphone Company took pictures to be sent to the Panama-Pacific Exposition as part of the New York City exhibit.

On the floor's instructions that all the poses be made during his actual work, he was supposed to enter the shop at City Hall, at his desk, and working with Police Commissioner James J. Connelley. He was not supposed to be in a large

COUNSEL BITTERLY DENOUNCES GAGAN IN CLOSING SPEECH

Declares District Attorney Failed to Get Evidence to Convict Cleary.

DEPENDENT BY MOSS.

Hotchkiss Must Await Briefs Before He Can Report to Governor.

NYACK, April 2.—I believe my mind is in the same state as the minds of other persons who have listened to the exceptionally able presentation of this case for both sides.

Commissioner William H. Hotchkiss made this statement when, last night, Paul Stryker finished his sensational summing up for the prosecution of the removal charges against District Attorney Thomas Gagan of Rockland County growing out of the acquittal of William V. Cleary, the boss of Haverstraw, of the murder of Eugene Newman, his son-in-law.

Frank Moss already had made an eloquent and forceful plea for the accused official. Gagan, exhausted from his grueling on the witness stand yesterday and today, was not in the court room and heard neither the furious denunciation of Mr. Stryker nor the glowing praise of Mr. Moss.

The summation of Mr. Stryker, which the Commissioner stated afterward contained an excellent outline of the vital issues in the case against Gagan, reached its climax when Stryker said:

"This District Attorney did not get and present evidence. I don't care whether he failed because of collusion or corruption of politics; he failed, and the citizenship of this county is not safe if cases are prosecuted as this case was prosecuted by this man."

SAYS HE WAS AMAZED AT GAGAN'S INACTION.

"Almost everything he might have done is being done here now for the first time—almost eight months after the boy was shot down in cold blood—and it is too late. I have been amazed that the simple, obvious, direct things that any one twenty-one years old could do were not done.

"Before the jury he said, 'We have not been able to produce any evidence that he (Cleary) came there to do this thing' (the killing). But did he try to get evidence? If you want to prove a case you have got to go out and get your evidence."

Referring to the action in what has been called in this hearing the "murder gun mystery," Mr. Stryker said: "Why, a thousand could have broken that crowd down before they had seen a shrewd lawyer and knew what to say. The District Attorney did not get out of his Haverstraw office chair to see obvious facts that would have helped him present a proper picture of the cold-blooded murder of that little boy by this big brute."

"A week before the trial he got former Congressman Henry Bacon, an old man, to help him. I will say here that Mr. Bacon's greatly-to-be-lamented death last week has hampered me in the presentation of my case, however. I will not refer to it again."

"Why, if Gagan had got Romeo Conking or Webster or Hamilton or Clay and shoved them into that case a week or so before the trial they could not have won that case."

Friends of Gagan, of William V. Cleary, of young Newman and his family sat in silence as the former Assistant District Attorney of New York County arraigned Gagan by out-lining what he said was the first real attempt to present all the evidence in the case of the State vs. Cleary.

Mr. Stryker said Gagan failed to ask the jury for a conviction, and that the higher degree of murder were practically eliminated. He also called attention to the way the testimony of the alienists concerning Cleary's insanity or irresponsibility had been juggled so as to benefit the defense.

MOSS FELT "LIKE A KNIGHT OF OLD," HE SAYS.

Mr. Moss began his opening for the defense at 1 o'clock. He said he felt like a knight of old standing by a brother. After he had asserted the basis of the charges was false he continued:

"Is it possible that a fraud has been perpetrated on the Governor?"

He said the extreme position of suspicion and interrogation of the inquiry must have surprised the Commissioner and others. In this conviction he said that religious feeling was a factor, and that "in some persons the word 'Gagan' is against him."

Mr. Moss asked how the brick-smoking interests of Haverstraw got poor Newman to sign that petition. He asserted there is "as much of religious, ignorant and commercial interests in the efforts to remove Gagan" as anything else.

"The charges are full of laborer propensities and ridiculous and silly allegations. There is malice behind it. This man ought to be honored. The idea that he would seek to destroy his reputation as an openly and recklessly is absurd."

Mr. Gagan concluded his thirteen hours on the stand at noon, after he said he had done what he could to protect the character of young Newman.

"Then," Mr. Stryker asked, "what did you mean by saying in your summing up, 'I must, as Public Prosecutor, admit that some of the aspersions cast upon young Newman are correct'?"

Mr. Gagan first insisted this was an incorrect quote, but finally said if it was in the record he supposed he must have said it.

Commissioner Hotchkiss said tonight he would report to the Governor within a week of the time he receives briefs.

$300 TO CONVICTS AS HE LEAVES JAIL

California Millionaire Celebrates the End of His Three-Year Term.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 1.—Frederick A. Hyde, a millionaire of Oakland, Cal., celebrated his release from the United States Penitentiary here by scattering $300 among the convicts.

Social and business leader in his home, he was convicted of land frauds and sentenced to three years' imprisonment. From the moment he entered prison he planned to celebrate his release. He established a "celebration fund" and it grew to $300 by the time his term expired. With Warden Zerkel's permission, Hyde addressed the convicts and distributed the money, the convicts cheering.

"It was just a celebration spree," said Hyde. "I worked with these fellows and grew to like many of them. I wanted to show my good will."

Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets

Does Your Corset "Set"?

Or break, or tear, or do the bones punch through? You will have no difficulty like this if it is a Warner's Rust-Proof.

Everything's double except the price.

The double boning (two thin strips beneath the covering) has twice the flexibility and greater strength than a single bone of equal weight. It positively will not break or "set"—see the bone curve in the boy's hands.

The double interlinings encasing the bones that are ground and tipped, prevent any possibility of the bones punching through the cloth.

Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets are extraordinary corsets—you know this the instant you wear them, and yet they cost only what an ordinary would—one dollar up to five.

You will be wearing your Warner's long after an ordinary corset would have gone to pieces. Each corset is accurately graded for the figure intended—each model at the lowest price is a fashionably shaping corset. We emphasize that each corset from the lowest to the highest price is guaranteed not to rust, break or tear.

You will find the new Warner styles for spring and summer anywhere you ask, and at every store, in every part of the city.

Every Pair Is Guaranteed
